Federal Councillor Wahlen expects one of the Chambers to deal with the Article in the December session and the other in March 1966. The federal plebiscite could then take place in the autumn next year.

At a Press Conference given by the Secretariat for the Swiss Abroad of the N.S.H., satisfaction was expressed, though the draft Article differs, mainly in formulation, from that submitted by the Commission. Provided it is accepted by Parliament, the Article will be a considerable milestone in the relations between Switzerland and her nationals abroad.

News of the Colony

Auckland Swiss Club (Rifle Section)

Bang, bang, it went at our opening and hunters competition. Quite a few thousand rounds of ammunition were shot and it did indicate quite clearly that shooting is still the No. 1 Swiss outdoor sport, and indoor I would say beyond doubt gastronomic pleasures in the indoor section if you can call it sport will win hands down, with the provision if you have the right ingredients.

Recipe is as follows: 1 1st grade Swiss chef; approximately 30 good size trout; 2 carcass of venison; French mayonaise, nussgipfel, coffee, and an assortment of good wines.

Surely you could not wish for anything better — the general request is another helping.

To our guests from Hamilton, many thanks and we wish to see you soon again for another friendly shooting match.

—Simi Hartmann.

Hamilton Swiss Club

A four-hour break in their flight from Wellington to Auckland brought the new Swiss Ambassador and Mrs von Graffenried to Hamilton. They were met at the airport by the President and Vice-President of the Hamilton Swiss Club.

A quick lunch with Mr and Mrs Risi at Mr and Mrs Biland's Residence and a drive through Hamilton terminated this visit all too soon. Much impressed by their vitality and genuine interest taken in our colony, we very much hope to see them again and we wish them a happy and successful term of duty in Canberra.

OUR OCTOBER EVENING

A novel idea was tried out for our October meeting. It was arranged to be held at Mr Fluhler's "Swiss Chalet," a small restaurant in Swiss style and very "gemuetlich."

Jassen was on the programme and some novel Swiss games were on hand for anyone to while away a bit of time.

To keep body and soul together a very substantial supper was served, and on its menu was something that cannot be obtained from any shop or eating place: Blut-and-Leberwurst, accompanied by the customary Sauerkraut, potatoes and stewed apples. Apfelstrudel or fruit salad with ice-cream followed and was topped off with an excellent cup of coffee.

The necessary liquid out of a bottle was also on hand to wash down the tasty fare. Mr Unternaehrer, the butcher and Mr and Mrs Fluhler the cooks had certainly done their part for a perfect evening.

The only disappointing thing was the very poor response of our club members, in spite of the event having been advertised twice in the Helvetia.

Members who were present at the "Swiss Chalet" voted this occasion one of the cosiest and nicest evenings we ever had. Everybody felt very relaxed and happy. Jass friends got their full and undisturbed share of the game. The rest of us chatted and joked. Swiss music was played softly as a background.

It was a special pleasure to welcome Mr and Mrs Mauch to our evening; they are here on a visit to their daughter Mrs K. Waldvogel. —H.B.

BERNINA GALA DAY

The gigantic advertising scheme by the Swiss "Bernina" firm, symbolised by their manned "Bernina" balloon, was the means of holding a Gala Day in Hamilton, with net proceeds in aid of the Plunket Society.

Our club was asked to help make it a successful day for the attending public.

A large tent was at our disposal and we arranged a display of Swiss goods, ranging from a complete "Burestuebli" to textiles, many of them handwoven and hand embroidered, baking specialities, Fondue sets, various Trachten and many beautiful souvenir items. Together with pot plants and all flags of our Homeland, it made a display which was a credit to our club.

The interest of the public in our exhibits was great and made our efforts and work well worthwhile. Sincere thanks to all our willing club members who loaned their treasured possessions and who helped in the many ways necessary. —H.B.

Taranaki Swiss Social Club

FUNCTION MARKS SHIP'S CHANGE OF NATIONALITY

With the first Swiss immigrants to New Zealand settling in Taranaki it was appropriate that the transfer of the motor vessel Castasenga's nationality from Liberian to Swiss should take place at Port Taranaki, the Swiss charge d'affaires in New Zealand, Dr Jean-Pierre Weber, said on board the ship last night.

Dr Weber was addressing about 40 guests who attended a cocktail evening aboard the Castasenga to mark the change of nationality which has resulted in the Swiss merchant navy being increased to 32 vessels.

The ship arrived at Port Taranaki yesterday flying the Liberian flag and bearing the name Cruzeiro Do Sul and owned by Maranava Ltd. a Swiss-owned company that had the ship registered in Liberia. The official transfer of ownership to the Oceania Shipping Co., another Swiss-owned company which has registered the ship in Switzerland, took place yesterday.

Symbolic

Dr Weber said the presence of the Castasegna in New Zealand waters was symbolic of the increasing trade between the two countries. He was pleased to see that New Zealand was giving increased attention to diversifying trade outlets and he would like to think that Switzerland offered possibilities.

Referring to the migration of Swiss nationals to New Zealand, he said their numbers had increased in New Zealand and many had become New Zealand citizens, combining in a most impressive manner a deep loyalty to their new country with a faithful attachment to the old.

The Swiss had always been very good citizens, said the mayor of New Plymouth, Mr A. G. Honnor, in reply, while the chairman of the Taranaki Harbours Board, Mr H. E. Blyde, echoed Dr Weber's desire for increased trade with Switzerland.

The president of the Swiss Society of New Zealand, Mr J. Steiner, New Plymouth, spoke on behalf of several members of the society present at the function.

The Castasegna will sail for Newcastle tomorrow.
