too well-lit), beautifully decorated, warm and friendly Cabaret greeted me. To my surprise there were lots of Swiss — and even more non-Swiss there, all in the highest of good spirit. Soon we all crowded on to the dance floor, flinging our arms, legs, frocks and what have you, hardly noticing our partners. Yes, the band was good, it played often, relaxed seldom and made a lot of noise, getting us regularly out of breath.

True, I longed right from the start for the supper, but was told that supper would be served after the Maori Concert Party's display. The Concert Party soon arrived and it was great fun to watch them in action. I always love to see those action songs and hear their chants. All too quickly they departed and this gave the signal for the supper! A hall with four large tables laden with goodies awaited us. There was enough for everybody and after we returned to the dance floor for further acrobatics in modern joint-twisters there was plenty left over from supper. I just couldn't dance enough. My partner was out of this world, the twisting, stamping, singing was a natural reaction to the music of the band. Sometimes three feet from him and on other occasions as close as possible, it was superb!

But it had to come to a close and on the way home I met my milkman on his round. Yes, it was a very enjoyable evening, full of fun and laughter, an evening spent with good company. May I express my thanks to all who organised it and to all who, by their friendliness helped to make it such a success.
