Mr. Felice A. Vittali is Europe's youngest station director — he is even younger than Herr Engen Hadamovsky, the new German Reichs-sendeleiter, who is twenty-eight years of age. If the Director is young it is only natural that the staff should be equally young, and such is the case. The engineer is a young man, so is the conductor of the orchestra, which is shared with the Kursaal. And the most youthful of all is Signorina Nini. She is said to have a family name, but everybody just calls her Signorina Nini — she told me she had nearly forgotten her other name herself.

She was born in Alexandria, and learnt her excellent English at the Scottish School there. She has been chief announcer at Lugano ever since they started limited transmissions for telephone listeners a year ago. Owing to the fact that Lugano will have to supply a complete day's programme for the Monte Ceneri — unlike Zürich, which has only part of the Beromünster programme to supply, or Geneva and Lausanne, which share in the Sottens transmissions — "Miss Nini" will not remain the sole announcer. And during my visit at Lugano I saw a number of heads bent over typewriters busily trying to solve the problems set them by the Director, with the object of eliminating the unsuitable.
