SWISS BANKING FIGURES.

The publication of the quarterly returns of the position of the principal Swiss banks for the end of 1933 was unavoidably delayed owing to the impossibility of compiling complete comparative figures so long as the accounts of the Banque d'Escompte Suisse were outstanding. The closing of this latter institution has now necessitated the adoption of a new basis, and figures have been published setting out the position of seven leading commercial banks, as compared with eight previously, at the end of December, 1933, and at the end of March.

The outstanding feature of the returns now published is the decline in the total deposits, but this is, of course, a development not confined to Switzerland. Savings accounts with the commercial banks have remained fairly stable, but fixed deposits in the form of "obligations" out fixed deposits in the form of "obligations" for a term of, say, three to five years, have fallen from 1,349 million francs in December, 1933, to 1,283 million francs at the end of March, 1934. The low rates of interest which could be offered and the generally unsettled conditions have militated against a rise in the volume of these deposits and made conversions difficult to arrange. Current accounts have declined from 1,306 millions to 1,246 millions but in the case of Current accounts have decimed from 1,306 millions to 1,246 millions, but in the case of bankers' accounts the figure has increased from 321 million francs to 356 million francs in the aggregate, the outstanding advance having been in the state of the s in the case of the Swiss Bank Corporation, which records an increase from 120 million francs to 166 million francs.

On the other side of the account, cash hold on the other side of the account, cash noti-ings show a substantial decrease, amounting on balance to 19½ per cent., as compared with De-cember. That is to be attributed to some extent to repayment of deposits, but also to a tendency to convert cash balances into deposits with banks.

In a general way, the above figures hardly permit the drawing of any very definite conclusions as to the state of business and finance in Switzerland, beyond illustrating the fact that the general volume of turnover is declining. The total balance sheet figure at the end of March was 5,372,000,000 frs., as against 5,547,000,000 francs at the end of 1933 francs at the end of 1933.

NO GOVERNMENT HELP FOR THE BANQUE D'ESCOMPTE SUISSE.

Federal Councillor Meyer, head of the Finance Department, has informed the Geneva authorities that the Government is unable to grant a subvention of 15 million francs in order to help the bank out of its difficulties.

SWITZERLAND'S "NO " TO TROTSKY.

The Swiss authorities deny reports to the effect that Trotsky has crossed the frontier into Switzerland. They add that if he is found in the country he will immediately be taken back to the frontier across which he entered.

Trotsky is reported to have spent a week at Trousky is reported to have spent a week at a hotel at Chamonix under the name of Jean Franck. He was accompanied by his wife and two men, and called himself a commercial traveller. He had shaved off his beard and he went out only at night.

RAILWAY ELECTRIFICATION IN SWITZERLAND.

Electric traction on the Federal Railway System was extended up to the spring of 1933 to a total length of 1,899 route km., or about 63 per cent, of the whole system. Electrification work is now in progress on 177 route kilometers. In spite of their unfavourable financial situation, the State Railways do not propose at present to curtail the programme of electrification provid-ing for the conversion of 504 route kilometers between 1931 and 1936. A few small private railways have also been converted to electric traction.

SWISS GOLD STOCKS.

SWISS GOLD STOCKS.

The return of the Swiss National Bank for 7th May is notable in so far as it reveals a small increase in the bank's holding of gold both in Switzerland and outside that country, and thus seems to indicate the end of the period of steady withdrawals which has lasted ever since the middle of February. The bank's gold reserve now stands at 1,633,819,705 frames, of which nearly 106 million frames is held abroad. This compares with a level of about 1,998 million francs which had been maintained almost without change from November, 1933, until the commencement of the recent series of withdrawals in February. On the other side of the account, in February. On the other side of the account, note circulation has again declined by 35 million francs, and now stands at 1,352,539,130 francs, while sight engagements have increased by 26 millions and stand at a total of 431,623,930 millions and stand at a total of 431,623,930 francs.

The stemming of the outflow of gold is a satisfactory indication of the stability of the position, in view of the banking difficulties which have recently been experienced in Switzerland and of the financial uncertainty which has accompanied them.

SUICIDE STATISTICS.

At Zurich there is an Anti-Suicide Bureau, which invites would-be suicides and their families to come and ask for advice and assistance. In certain other countries more elaborate arrangements exist to prevent those who are tired of life from taking their "easiest way out."

In Buda-Pest, for instance, the River Danube, which is very popular with would-be suicides, is guarded by police, while in Japan a certain volcano is constantly watched by a retachment of soldiers, because during the past few years it has been the scene of countless suicides. suicides.

During the 19th century no fewer than two million persons took their own lives in Europe and the United States. This is equal to nearly twice the population of Glasgow!

Suicide statistics already available for the first third of the present century show that the number of suicides between 1900 and 1934 averaged 100,000 per annum, so that the 20th century has already produced one million more suicides than the 19th. In Germany alone, 300,000 cases of suicide were recorded during the period from 1900 to 1925. In Switzerland between two and three suicides fall to every 10,000 persons. In Austria, Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary the suicide rate is between four and five per 10,000 of the population. The fewest suicides ratingary the suicide rate is between four and hive per 10,000 of the population. The fewest suicides occur in England, the Scandinavian countries and Holland. In all these countries the number of suicides does not exceed one per 10,000 of the population.
