FETE SUISSE.

Liebe Landsleute!

Nächsten Donnerstag Abend dürfen wir uns wiederum zur grossen Familienfeier unserer Colonie in der Westminster Central Hall begeben. Mehr als je tut solch ein gemeinsames Bekenntnis zur fernen Heimat not. Unser Volk kann nur dann bestehen, wenn es ein Volk von Brüdern ist. Wir sind dankbar, dass wir dieser Zusammengehörigkeit Ausdruck geben können.

Wir hoffen auch, dass dieser Abend allen Freude bereiten werde. Das Programm ist abwechslungsreich gestaltet. Anerkannte Künstler unserer Heimat haben sich bereit finden lassen, uns mit ihren Darbietungen zu erfreuen. Aber auch unsere unermüdlichen "Einheimischen" werden Beweise ihres Könnens erbringen. Wir werden gemeinsam die trauten Volksliederweisen miteinander singen. Blumen aus unseren Bergen wollen unser Auge und Herz ergötzen.

Und weil kein Volksfest ohne Festhütte vollständig wäre, ist auch für hungrige Festteilnehmer reichlich gesorgt.

Der Beginn des Festes ist diesmal auf 6Uhr45 angesetzt, damit wir unser Programm nicht kürzen müssen und rechtzeitig schliessen können.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE OF ZURICH.

(By Leu & Co.'s Bank Limited, Zurich.)

Zurich, May 30th, 1938.

During the past few weeks Europe was torn between hopes and fears whether a new war would break out, or whether peace could be maintained. The antagonistic point of views, the fascist-nationalist creed on one side, was clashing with the democratic ideas of the western European countries on the other side and the friction proved to be so fervent at times, that never since the world war did mankind make such a narrow escape from a general disaster.

The stock exchanges for this reason and in particular the Swiss markets went through a period of heavy fluctuations. Politics ruled mercilessly over everything. Favourable annual reports of certain companies relieved the market but temporarily from the steady pressure and also a substantial decrease of unemployment in this country, stimulated but little. Anxiety is still prevailing and the desire to risk money by investing it, is small.

Now that the political atmosphere seems to clear up somewhat, other factors show up and do not encourage business-life. The economic development in the United States is watched with uneasiness. The long hoped-for spring revival had failed to come, and although expectations are set for a marked upswing in the fall, nobody feels very positive about it. World trade is decreasing and commodity prices still are on the slanting side. How can stock prices in general improve under such circumstances?

If Swiss stocks did not decrease any more it is only due to the circumstances that the market has turned very small and is fundamentally sound, not to speak of the comparatively safe and stable political atmosphere in this country. As a matter of fact the slightest prospects of improved conditions abroad would probably see the Swiss markets advance very fast. A few selected stocks reacted as follows:

	April 20	May 20	End of May
Elektrobank	537	538	516
Motor-Columbus	264	272	261
Elektrizitäts- & Verkehrs-Ges.	185	172	160
Italo-Suisse	155	147	142
Schweiz. Rückversicherung ...	4075	3990	3940
Ad. Saurer	290	276	270
Aluminium	2685	2695	2648
Lonza	500	504	500
Nestlé	1200	1175*	1174
Sulzer	725	696	682

* ex dividend and ex capital repayment.

The bond market was considerably quieter in spite of the political tenseness. The Swiss gilt-edged securities after a selling wave in March recovered almost fully and interest rates show again a tendency to fall. 3% Federal Railways, différé sell for 102.75, while the 3% Federal Railways 1938 are 99½ bid.

Among the foreign bonds French issues encountered only temporary interest when the Franc suffered another devaluation of 9% and was linked to a certain extent to the English pound. The trust in the present Government's successfully mastering the difficulties in France is not very impressive, as the repatriation of capital did not last very long. German and Italian bonds viewed a very small market owing to the political circumstances and were in general slightly lower. All in all, neither the bond nor the stock market are very bright spots, as general uncertainty is the main feature since months.
