MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE SWISS CONFEDERATION.

Mes chers compatriotes,

Comme chaque année, les pensées des Suisses réunis sur le sol natal le soir du 1er août se porteront vers vous, Suisses de l'étranger, avec affection et reconnaissance. Affection, parce que l'éloignement ne saurait affaiblir les liens de la terre et du sang. Reconnaissance, parce que souvent vous avez choisi la part difficile et que vous avez su, à force de travail et de ténacité, mériter le bon accueil et, la plupart du temps, l'amitié des pays où vous êtes établis.

Vous servez, là où vous êtes, une cause qui nous est commune. Nous savons que nous pouvons compter sur vous pour maintenir et développer dans le meilleur esprit nos relations nécessaires avec l'étranger. Vous représentez au dehors l'idéal et les traditions qui ont fait à notre pays une place honorable dans l'histoire. Il vous appartient non moins qu'à nous de préserver cet héritage précieux du passé des influences destructrices qui s'exercent actuellement dans le monde.

A l'occasion de ce 1er août 1950, je suis heureux d'être l'interprète, auprès de tous les Suisses de l'étranger, des sentiments de cordialité et de gratitude qu'éprouvent à leur égard le Conseil fédéral et le peuple suisse. Je forme des vœux pour la prospérité de leurs colonies et de leurs institutions et pour que leur action collective et individuelle puisse se poursuivre dans la paix.

MAX PETITPIERRE,
Président de la Confédération.

Economics

Swiss trade with Russia has remained well below the annual figure of 200 million francs each way, fixed under the Swiss trade agreement with Russia of March, 1948. In 1949, imports from Russia declined to 11.7 million Swiss francs from 21.3 million in 1948, the corresponding figures for exports being 24.2 million and 32.9 million Swiss francs. Main Swiss imports from Russia consisted of grain, hides and skins and carpets, with imports of cotton, coal, timber, heavy chemicals and precious metals negligible.

The accounts for 1949, of the "Schweiz. Zentrale für Handelsförderung" close with a credit balance of 207,589.—frs.

Swiss imports from Britain during June amounted to Frs.28.3m., against Frs.26m. in May. Supplies in the opposite direction during the period advanced from Frs.10.9m. to Frs.12.1m.

Total Swiss imports in June were Frs.22.4m. higher at Frs.329.5m. Exports rose by Frs.8.6m. to Frs.294.5m.

The United States is still Switzerland's biggest supplier (Frs.50m.), followed by France, Germany, Italy and the U.K.

Italy ranked first in June among Switzerland's customers (Frs.39.4m.), followed by the United States, France and Belgium.

glacial year 1948-49 the general withdrawal of Alpine glaciers continued and was even greater than in previous years. Contributing factors were light snowfalls during the mild winter of 1948-49 and the excessive heat of the following summer. The result was that of 100 glaciers observed and measured five were advancing (13 in 1947-48), two were at a standstill (10 in the previous year), and 93 were retreating (77 in 1947-48).

The only advancing glaciers were small ones in the Alps Vaudoises. The backward movement was much more accentuated in the Grisons and Ticino Alps than in the western and central regions. Soundings in the Tiefenmatten and Schönbühl glaciers, near Zermatt, showed that the mass of solid ice was from 375ft. to 750ft. thick. The Dakota aircraft which was stranded on the Gauli glacier in the Bernese Oberland in December, 1946, has now completely disappeared and its remains are expected to reappear within 30 or 40 years.

Traffic accidents in Switzerland are still on the increase. During the month of May 435 accidents (1949 : 351) occurred in the canton of Berne; 351 people were injured, nine of whom sustained fatal injuries. In the canton of Aargau 115 traffic accidents were reported. 87 persons were injured one of whom died.

PETITES CHOSES QUI FONT PLAISIR.

"Semaine Suisse" (Service de Presse).

Après trois ans d'études et d'essais, on vient d'entreprendre à Uster la construction de machines pour le travail du coton, conçues tout spécialement pour satisfaire les besoins suisses et européens. L'industrie suisse du bas s'affranchit ainsi de toute dépendance à l'égard de l'étranger, tant en ce qui concerne l'acquisition que l'entretien de son parc de machines de précision. La machine fabriquée à Uster présente toute une série d'innovations importantes et c'est un produit 100% suisse.

60 techniciens lyonnais ont fait un voyage d'étude en Suisse pour visiter les différents centres de l'industrie textile suisse.

Des trains rapides formés de voitures suisses modernes de métal léger ont procédé à des démonstrations concluantes entre Paris et Blois.

A New York et à Copenhague ont été organisées des expositions des produits de l'industrie suisse dans les vitrines des magasins. Le public a fort apprécié ces manifestations.

Sous la direction du professeur Lugeon et avec le concours de neuf missions scientifiques venant des pays les plus divers, on a lancé à Payerne des radiosondes qui ont atteint l'altitude de 30 km. Les directeurs des principales stations météorologiques des cinq continents ont visité Payerne à cette occasion.

"Swiss Tour" de la Präsens-Film a remporté un plein succès lors de sa première présentation au public américain, dans un théâtre de Hollywood. La critique vante particulièrement le charme romantique qui se dégage de ce film, la parfaite direction technique et l'excellence de la régie. L'opérateur a réussi à saisir comme toile de fond toute la beauté de la Suisse.

Les films que réalise le professeur Nicolet pour rendre plus fructueux l'enseignement des mathématiques viennent de remporter de nouveaux succès à Londres à un congrès international de professeurs de mathématiques. Un "comité de patronage des films Nicolet", à participation internationale, se propose d'apporter à l'auteur toute l'aide nécessaire à la poursuite et à la diffusion de ses travaux.

Plus de trois cents intellectuels européens se sont réunis en congrès à Venise, sous la présidence de M. Antony Babel, professeur à l'Université de Genève. Ils ont constitué une "Société européenne de culture", appelée à montrer l'unité de la culture européenne, par-dessus toutes les différences politiques, économiques ou linguistiques. Cinq Suisses ont été appelés à faire partie du Conseil exécutif; ce sont MM. Antony Babel, vice-président, Robert de Traz et Henri de Ziegler, hommes de lettres, Wilhelm Loeffler, professeur à Zurich et Fernand Mueller, secrétaire général des Rencontres internationales.
