VARIOUS.

The Swiss Federal Institute for the study of snow and avalanches on the Weissfluhoch, above Davos, is taking all Swiss who own a refrigerator to gather hailstones exceeding one-fifth of an inch in diameter and to keep them at a temperature under freezing point until officials of the institute can collect them. The recent heavy falls of hailstones of abnormal size show, it is explained, the urgency of studying all possible means of protection against hailstorms. The institute is now concentrating on that study and it believes that the examination of abnormal hailstones can contribute to the solution of the problem.

Good news for motorists. The Swiss authorities are now preparing plans which they expect to be introduced at the beginning of 1958.

It is understood that motorists from abroad will no longer be required to produce a "carnet de passage en douane" or a triptyque when entering or leaving Switzerland. This very important Customs concession will be operated during a trial period.

Further details will be published as soon as possible.

A L'AVEUGLETTE. . .

Depuis nombre d'années, la Semaine suisse s'efforce de lutter contre l'utilisation abusive des emblèmes nationaux et d'autres signes publics suisses sur les marchandises offertes aux consommateurs. On sait qu'un produit d'origine étrangère se vend plus facilement en Suisse lorsqu'il est muni d'une croix fédérale, d'un écusson cantonal, de l'image de Guillaume Tell ou d'une région connue de notre pays. Cette action de la Semaine suisse est trop souvent freinée par l'effet d'une législation peu claire et que les tribunaux appliquent dans un sens très large. Il faudrait à ce propos consacrer des pages entières au cas particulier des "articles-souvenirs", qui très souvent nous arrivent directement de l'étranger, ornés d'une croix helvétique.

D'autres marchandises parviennent sur le marché suisse avec des noms de fantaisie, sans indication de provenance et sans que soit connu le fabricant.

Dans de tels cas, la curiosité de l'acheteuse ou de l'acheteur sera bienfaisante. Certes, le commerce international est basé sur la réciprocité et il ne viendra à l'idée de personne de renoncer par principe à l'achat d'une marchandise parce qu'elle est étrangère au pays. En revanche, chaque consommateur a le droit d'être renseigné honnêtement sur la provenance du produit qu'on lui offre. Ainsi, il n'achètera pas à l'aveuglette. Il sera d'autre part absolument certain de l'origine suisse d'un produit, si celui-ci porte la marque de l'"Arbalète", que le Bureau central pour la marque suisse d'origine a créé il y a 25 ans et qui sera présente le mois prochain dans les milliers de vitrines que préparent les détaillants avec les bons produits de chez nous.
