On 4th and 5th April the Lausanne Hotel Keepers' Association and the Lausanne Tourist Office gave a Raclette Luncheon to Travel Writers and the various Automobile Clubs and Associations in Great Britain. It was a most original idea and the premises in the basement of the Swissair offices in Regent Street lent themselves excellently for the purpose. Each day some forty-five guests sat down to a real Raclette Valaisanne accompanied by first class wines from the same region. A Swiss Kirsch perfected the meal. The Hôteliers of well-known Lausanne Hotels and members of the Swiss National Tourist Office in London waited on the visitors most expertly.

The chairman of the Lausanne hosts welcomed the guests and thanked them for all they had done to make Lausanne so popular in Great Britain. He also referred to the Swiss National Exhibition and looked forward to welcoming a large number of British visitors to this great show.
