TOURIST NEWS IN BRIEF

A new first-class hotel has opened in Savognin, the up-and-coming summer resort and winter sports centre located at an altitude of 4,010 ft. on the Julier Pass, the road link between Coire and the Engadine in the Grisons. The Hotel Cresta has 65 beds and 13 private baths; all its rooms are equipped with radio and telephone, and there are garages and parking areas for 90 cars. The restaurant has seating capacity of 300. As for entertainment during the long winter evenings, there is a bar featuring an orchestra and dancing, and two fully automatic Swiss-style bowling alleys. The Hotel Cresta is open all the year. In the summer, Savognin offers extensive, well-tended paths for walking and ample opportunity for mountaineers, anglers and tennis players to enjoy their favourite pastimes. In winter the area has fine snow conditions, ski schools, a chair lift, six ski lifts (going from 4,010 to 8,910 ft.), curling, ice-skating and tobogganing.

A 140-page illustrated work on the Alpine Principality of Liechtenstein has been issued by the tiny country's Press Chief, Walter Kranz, to mark the celebration of the Prince's birthday. Among other things, the book gives a detailed history of the princely house and the Principality, its constitution, administration, finances, tax structure, and the chief points of interest in the miniature monarchy.

Several of the largest Swiss tourist offices recently received gifts of a Cresta Vauxhall car each, from General Motors Suisse in Bienne. The vehicles are meant to lighten the ever-increasing burdens of the tourist offices, and they are tangible proof of the interest taken by a huge international corporation in the Swiss tourist industry.

Two new first-class hotels opened in Zurich during August, to increase that city's available hotel number of beds by some 300. The Hotel Florida is situated just off the lakeside promenade, and the Motel Jolie Ville is located at the Western access to the National Road N3 which leads towards Austria.
