ACSE'S SPECIAL SUMMER COURSES IN LONDON

In recent years it has become increasingly evident that there are many students from abroad for whom London, with its immense academic, cultural and historical environment, represents an ideal summer study centre. There are many who desire an intensive and highly concentrated programme of studies in the limited time available to them. The Anglo-Continental School of English has decided to meet this two-fold demand by offering a new type of courses in Chelsea.

The Anglo-Continental School of English, known as ACSE to its 35,000 past students, is extending its activities in the full knowledge that its seventeen years of experience and its highly qualified staff will bring to London the hallmark of quality which characterises the School's successful expansion in Bournemouth.

The Chelsea College of Science and Technology, which belongs to London University, forms an ideal background for ACSE Summer Courses. In addition to the comfortable classrooms, the fine College buildings contain large purpose built lecture rooms and a well-designed Assembly Hall ideally suited to ACSE's varied programme of social activities, such as film performances, theatrical productions, play readings and school dances.

Two courses have been organised, each of four weeks' duration, and the fact that both courses have been fully booked speaks for the popularity of ACSE on the Continent.

The intensive programme of studies consists of a basic programme of twenty compulsory language lessons in the classrooms combined with an optional programme offering a wide range of lectures, additional lessons and special courses.

Students from Switzerland and elsewhere will love the pleasing atmosphere of the modern college buildings.

Accommodation is provided in the Lightfoot Hall of Residence in Chelsea and in the Ralph West Hall of Residence in Battersea where every student has his own comfortably equipped room with hot and cold water, and where the teachers are at their disposal for consultation and advice on matters of personal concern.

Weekly, day or half-day excursions are included in the all-inclusive fees, besides a tour of London, the students will visit such places as Oxford and Cambridge, Hampton Court and Windsor, Canterbury and Margate. A Guide from ACSE's Travel Department accompanies all tours.

From the Summer of 1968, similar holiday courses will be held at the University of Warwick in Coventry, at Oxford's Westminster College and at Queen's University in Belfast (Northern Ireland). There is no doubt, that these courses will be as popular as the first two now being held in Chelsea; they are fully booked, and the students are enthusiastic about their stay in the British Metropolis.
