that Alfred Schmid worked at the Savoy Hotel in London until early 1919.

On 12th May, 1919 began the fame of the Glendower Hotel in Kensington when he started this thriving business which is still run by the family today. Many were the dinners organised at the Glendower, both privately and by Swiss societies. It became the home of the Swiss Rifle Association of which Alfred Schmid was a founder member and active supporter right to his retirement. He was also a member and Honorary Member of the Union Helvetia, and he was a member of the City Swiss Club which he joined in 1933. Mr. and Mrs. Schmid were created Life Members by the Swiss Philatelic Society; this organisation, too, enjoyed Glendower hospitality for many years and benefitted from Alfred Schmid's talent for turning the austerity meals of the war and afterwards into minor banquets. His catering abilities were also enjoyed by thousands at the annual "Fête Suisse" at Westminster Central Hall.

Alfred Schmid and his family have been supporters of the Swiss Church in London, and at the beginning of the war, he was instrumental in setting up a Home for Swiss people in conjunction with the Swiss Benevolent Society. This was at "Westfield" at Hatfield, which later became the family's home. But best remembered by his friends is the "Bernerstube" in his flat across from the Glendower Hotel where many a happy hour was spent by his special cronies.

He was an energetic man with a jovial personality, though he could be very stern and hard, which no doubt helped him in making a success. He was lucky in having a capable wife who was his loyal mate throughout his life in London. May we be permitted to repeat the expressions of condolence already expressed to her and her family. The loss of a companion after 56 years and only a few years after the tragic death of their son, is a heavy blow, but we trust that the many happy memories and the sympathy of her friends will be a consolation in her grief.

In October Alfred Schmid's ashes were to be interred in the family grave at Gsteig near Interlaken. A faithful Swiss will thus return to his homeland.
