Re: Val de Nuria

The photo of A5 of FGC on the rear cover of Swiss Express, September 2000, is new to me. I knew these motor coaches were able to pull two of the old coaches, but had never seen a picture before. When I was in Ribes some years ago, they ran without them. Still one thing is worth noting, A 5 - A 8 were NOT built by SLM, but by MTM, later Alstom. Only the bogies (and maybe some other parts) came from SLM.

On my recent visit to the Bernese Oberland I came across the beautiful church at Gsteig by Wilderswil and in the peaceful surroundings of the graveyard saw the headstones as illustrated in the enclosed photographs. Do these detailed carvings denote the occupations of the departed? Can any of your readers shed any light on these?

Interlaken Mystery

Has anyone any information about an electrified rail connection from an electricity works along a road and across the River Aare, joining the main line just before Interlaken West Stn. The bridge over the river was barricaded and disused. When was it constructed, was it a private siding, were their regular services and when did it fall into disuse?
