Plea from the Photo Editor - This photograph is in the main computerised archive of over 3,000 pictures, but there's no clue of where and what it is, and this applies to probably 50% of the photos we have. "Mystery" is certain apt but is it a bus or some kind of rail car? Where is it? So please, if you send in images, either with an article, or as stand alone pictures, do give them a meaningful file name or a separate list of captions. This is not getting at you, Phil, yours was just a very apt picture to illustrate a major problem. For information on submitting photographs, see Tony's item on our website Photo: Phil Weaver
