2014 SRS Calendar

It is time to order your 2014 edition of the SRS Calendar the format of which will be similar to last year's. As usual we expect this edition to sell-out, so get your order in as soon as possible. The Calendar costs £10, however with postage to UK addresses the cost will be £12.50. Due to increases in overseas postage rates members outside the UK should contact Gyn Jones at SRS Sales to enquire about delivery costs. In order to receive the calendar before Christmas orders must be in by 30th September. Send your order and payment to Glyn Jones whose contact details are on the inside of the back cover. It is anticipated that the calendars will be posted out in early October.

Date for your Diary

The 2014 AGM will be held on the 15th March 2014 at the Hallmark Hotel (formerly Midland Hotel), Derby. It is being organised by the East Midlands Branch on behalf of the management committee. Any offers of layouts or displays should be sent to Glyn Jones – his contact details are in this magazine. Contributions towards expenses are available.

The Birmingham Branch - What goes on?

For Society members who have never been to a branch meeting, you may wonder what goes on. When I first joined the Society in 2006, my nearest branch was the West Midlands whose meetings were advertised as being held in members' homes. You were invited to contact the organiser to find out where and when the next meeting was to be held. Being a shy and retiring person, I didn't fancy turning up at a strange front door in deepest Worcestershire and announcing I had come for the SRS meeting. Imagine if it had been the wrong house! At the next AGM I sought, and obtained agreement from the Management Committee to form the Birmingham branch. I managed to book a meeting room in a local Church and started from there. The Membership Secretary offered to send out a letter put together by me to any members in the local area - it had to be done this way for data protection reasons. We have now been going for five years, and are about 20 strong on a good night. We start our session in September and run through to May breaking for the summer. Quite a few members bring their wives along, so we make sure that our programme caters for them too! (They don't welcome rivet counters). After a brief introduction, we usually watch a slide/digital presentation for 40 minutes before pausing for tea, coffee and conversation before the second half to finish by 10pm. The room we use is very warm and comfortable with soft chairs and carpeted floor, and has a large cream painted wall, used instead of a projection screen. Over the years we have had many different speakers, with most of the Management Committee supporting us at various times. Our December meeting is always the best when members bring seasonal food to share, and a light-hearted quiz brings plenty of fun and laughter. The message is, if you're within reach you're welcome to join us at any of our meetings (details in Swiss Express or on the website), or support or even form another local branch.

Members' Letters

The West of England branch believes it was fortunate to be the first branch to invite Paul Hagger, the Marketing Consultant of the Swiss Classic Train to give a presentation about its operation. This he did at the April 2013 meeting in Newton Abbot. The branch is very grateful to Paul for coming all the way from his home in Northumberland the day before, staying the night in hotel accommodation, delivering his presentation in the morning and afternoon, and then returning home to the North East that evening.

Members found his illustrated talk most interesting, informative, and enjoyable and are very appreciative of the fact that he would not take any contribution towards his expenses. Furthermore, Paul said that he is willing to visit any other branch of the Society.

From: Paul M. Grant - Toronto, Ontario.

From my recent trip to Switzerland the days of a loco and carriages on one's train are seriously numbered. However, from my observations the SBB is replacing them with very attractive seven-car units on various services. I also saw a new seven-car unit hooked onto a 14-car set on one route, presumably an economic way of proceeding by using one path for two services. The loss of the traditional loco/carriage working is sad for some, but I am of the opinion that railways have to progress and must face the future head-on, so everything is 'right'. The ability to easily upgrade an operation from seven to fourteen cars must be good and is the future. Regarding the item on P9 of the June Swiss Express, unfortunately, when have there not been thieves around train and bus stations? One has to be very aware all the time when travelling and perhaps use an additional strap to secure bags, etc. to ones arm, or do as I do and carry my shoulder bag across my chest. Many people using long distance travel these days seem to have forgotten even the simplest rules, and do not use that god-given ability, common sense. Here in Canada

we do not have the benefit of Switzerland's excellent public transport system, but on my trips from Toronto to Quebec City I am still able to travel in a civilized manner using Via Rail.

In response to requests I am considering republishing the book "The History of the Gotthard Railway". The updated version is currently approx. 680 pages covering the period 1961 - 2000. There will be over 550 illustrations of which 20% will be in full colour. New drawings and track plans along with new text will be included. Due to the high cost of publication I would like to know how many members would be interested in purchasing the book, cost of which would be approx. GBP45.00. As an alternative I am considering the publication being released as a DVD, cost around GBP20, with sound and 8 video clips. Would any members interested in this project please email me with their preference of either book or DVD? My email address is gotthard@tiscali.co.uk
