the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased from 10.5 million to 13.5 million (19.5% of the population).

There are a number of reasons why the number of people aged 65 and over has increased. One of the main reasons is that people are living longer. The life expectancy at birth in the UK is 77 years for men and 81 years for women. This is an increase from 71 years for men and 75 years for women in 1950.

Another reason is that people are having children later in life. This means that there are more people in the 65-74 age group.

There are also a number of reasons why the number of people aged 65 and over is expected to increase in the future. One of the main reasons is that people are living longer.
